1 Hard-wood is used to describe wood from non-monocot angiosperm trees and for those trees themselves. These are usually broad-leaved; in temperate and boreal latitude they are mostly deciduous, but in tropics and subtropics mostly evergreen.

2 Natural forests are the forest which might be managed to some degree or unmanaged. After an adequate amount of time without intervention, such a forest might develop some of the basic structure of virgin forest.

3 Protected Areas System is an area of land/or sea especially dedicated to the protection of biological diversity, and of natural and associated cultural resources, and managed through legal or other legal or other effective means (IUCN, 1994).
